

01

02

03

04

05

DIAMOND

In this signature streamlined modern desert home, architect Narendra Patel created a delicate pavilion, overlooking a golf course, valley, and mountains. The home's defining element is a daring inverted shell roof that lifts up towards the exterior, bringing light into airy interiors. The main living spaces including the great room, dining & family room, kitchen, and the master suite are located facing the pool as the primary choice view, while sheltered by the hovering roof. Circulation to the bedrooms is separate from the public areas, giving each bedroom its own access to private patios and views, while maximizing privacy.

01 Wall and window detail 02 Exterior pathways 03 View into bathroom 04 Front façade 05 Exterior with pool by night

Photos: Arthur Coleman